R. S. , AND SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE, ENTITLED THE QUESTION OF SCARCITY PLAINLY STATED, ETC. (Thursday, March 27, 1800) THE public are well acquainted with Arthur Young. Formerly agasp for reform, he now raves against all reformation, as dogs contract the hydrophobia from excessive thirst. We impeach him not of insincerity; a proneness to charge either church or state prophets with the guilt of conscious imposture we hold an unequivocal symptom of a vulgar and unreflecting mind. Arthur Young sympathized with his country in a sentiment of horror against the excesses of the French revolution; he was aware that some portion of this horror would attack all those who, like himself, had blown the trump of gratulation on the first approach of that revolution; and he hastened to avow his recantation...
